DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 6-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over STERN et al or VANDERZANDE et al or ISSARIS et al, they are of record on 1449.

STERN discloses a process for producing conjugated polymers having the repeating units of the general formula (VII):  $[-\text{Ar}-\text{CH}=\text{CH}-]$  (See col. 9, line 45), corresponding to the claimed formula (I) of claim 6 in that A1 and A2 are hydrogen.

Note that the process comprising reacting a compound of the general formula I wherein P is  $-\text{SO}-\text{R}_3$ , with a base in the presence of an alcohol as a solvent ((see col. 10, lines 27-28, col. 3, lines 53-54), and then warming (see col. 8, lines 49-51) to form products of the claimed formulae.

Note that the starting materials comprising aromatic groups such as

Can be read on the claimed monomer of the formula (II) in claim 6.

It is further noted that in Example 9, the reference discloses a polymerization of a sulfonyl-p-xylene compound in the presence of MMF and NatBuO.

VANDERZANDE discloses in Figure 4 on page 195, the mechanism from (6), corresponding to the claimed monomer of the formula (II) in claim 6, under sodium t-butoxide to form the intermediate product (12), corresponding to a compound of the formula III in claim 6, and warming it up to form the product (13), corresponding to the product of the formula I of claim 6.

ISSARIS discloses a process in that during the polymerization of a sulfonyl-p-xylene compound, t-butanol and an MMF anion are formed, the MMF function as a base and therefore it is to be expected that t-butanol would be acting as the solvent, as in the STERN reference.

The disclosures of the references differ from the instant claims in that they do not disclose the claimed general formulae I-III with so many variations.

However, the references do disclose specific reactants under the same mechanisms to form specific products which are included in the broad teachings of the claimed formulae.

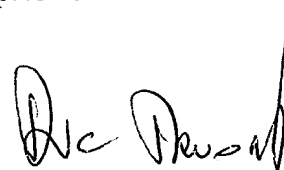

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to select the reactants from the references within the limitations of the instant claims under the same mechanisms since they have been shown to be effective in a similar system and thus would have been expected to provide adequate results. There is no showing of unexpected results derived from said selections.
